ABOUT THIS WEEK

Along the edges of a breathtaking canyon, birds gather food for their young, reminding us that every detail of creation is taken care of—and we're no different. This week, we'll see how God meets our needs that are easy to notice and the needs we can't see. Understanding how much we're cared for inspires us to respond in praise, so we worship because God provides.

WHAT?

The Grand Canyon is a 277-mile-long canyon in Arizona. One of the biggest rules about hiking in a place like the Grand Canyon is to never go alone. You'll always want at least one person with you to help when you need it. Whether we're facing a big challenge, like hiking through the Grand Canyon, facing our fears, or just going about our lives, we all need help sometimes. We can't do everything on our own, and that's okay! Noticing who God puts in our lives at the right moment is a chance to respond with worship.

SO WHAT?

The author of Psalm 111 praises God for providing food and a home to people who need it. But that wasn't all. It's a lot easier for us to notice when someone is providing for our physical needs, but God goes above and beyond and provides for our spiritual needs, too. God gives us what we can't provide for ourselves, like grace, hope, and redemption.

In Luke 12:24–32, Jesus reminds the people they don't have to worry because God provides us with what we really need. We don't have to panic because we know God will take care of us. No matter what, we can worship in response. We worship because God provides.

NOW WHAT?

God's care for us is so vast and beyond our imagination that it can feel like... well, like seeing the Grand Canyon for the first time. Sometimes, we need a little push to help us respond to God through worship, as we recognize the ways God provides for us.

- REMEMBER WHAT GOD HAS DONE: Every time you reflect on how God has provided for you, that's an act of worship.
- TRUST IN WHAT GOD CAN DO: Our worship isn't just about looking back but about looking ahead—with our full trust in how God will provide. We worship because God provides.
